WEINZAPFEL REPORTS NEARLY $1.8 MILLION RAISED IN ATTORNEY GENERAL CAMPAIGN

Democratic nominee raises nearly $800K in 3rd quarter; has more than one million cash-on-hand

EVANSVILLE, IND – In another sign of its momentum, today the Weinzapfel for Indiana Attorney General campaign announced it has raised nearly $1.8 million since its launch, including $798,375.53 in the 3rd quarter.

The campaign, which has $1,002,742.41 cash-on-hand, reported 2,894 individual contributions. This is in stark contrast to Todd Rokita's campaign, which relied on the Republican Attorney General's Association for more than half of its funds.

"Unlike our opponent, who is being funded by Washington D.C. special interests, Jonathan's campaign is powered by Hoosiers from all across the state," said Ann Bochnowski, chair of the Weinzapfel for Attorney General campaign. "They know that Jonathan has the experience and vision to help rebuild Indiana after the pandemic, to strengthen the trust between our criminal justice system and the communities they protect and to fight to protect our health care coverage from people like Todd Rokita who want to strip it away."

In addition to strong fundraising numbers, the campaign is airing television commercials statewide and has earned nearly 100 different endorsements from various leaders and organizations, including Republican Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Jennifer McCormick.

Jonathan Weinzapfel was elected mayor of Evansville in 2003 and re-elected in 2007. After his two terms as mayor, Weinzapfel served as chancellor of the Ivy Tech Evansville campus from 2014-2019. He also served in the Indiana General Assembly as a state representative from 1999-2003. He currently works as a partner at the law firm of Jones Wallace in Evansville. Jonathan and his wife Patricia, reside in Evansville and have three children.
